

Chapter 10

Journey beyond Love

The moment has arrived...

You knew that this particular moment, like most other ones, had not arrived to pass off just like that. 'Lo ...this one did not pass off'. You knew it.You knew about it. ...You knew that it was to come. ...You knew it was coming. ...You were waiting for it.You had recognized it coming. ...You were aware of its approach. Now, you have known it. ...It has come ...arrived. The bestowment is acclaimed. ...The benediction has flowered. ...The gateway to 'Across' is reached. ...The last milestone of the 'Gross' is crossed.

...The Subtle Ultimate has arrived.

God always arrives.You cannot reach God. How can you? ...You do not know Him yet. ...You have known about Him in books, in dictates, in tenets and in principles, but you have not experienced Him yet. You have not conversed with Him yet. You could not have known Him. ...When you do not know, how will you know that you have achieved?

Still, you respect the irony, that whatever was your consciousness when this moment arrived ...you were blinded ...as always. Only at other times, you did not know that the blinding was due to darkness or otherwise ...and this time you are certain that - that instantaneous blinding was due to bursts of light ...due to something very bright. You are sure that the blinding was due to some moving arena, which was very luminous ...brilliant ...and wondrous ...as if, the very source of brilliance was engulfed in it ...and ...this one stayed. Though, it was all the dynamism, but it contained all the possible passivity. Though, it was all the ferocity, but it was greatest peace ever. And it arrived not in a misnomer ...not in absentia ...not paradoxically... It was to stay as that great moment ...the miraculous golden moment. The Golden Moment arrived. ...It did not pass off.It stayed and made all moments till-date crystallize. You gave sufficient importance to your sight when it grasped the encounter with the Golden Gate.

You gave sufficient importance to your sight when it grasped the encounter with the golden gate. You had learnt to give importance to all moments. You had practiced it all your life. ...You knew that all moments need to be respected for your own accord ...you had experienced this. You gave importance to all moments because they deserved unparalleled respect. Moments carried the essence and flavour of their times. Times flew off ...moments were momentary ...yet they had the powers to accumulate vast wealth of their times ...and they had powers to exude that wealth at all appropriate moments in future. Their process was magical. ...Their evolution was miraculous ...and all they deserved was phenomenal regards, which you learnt to deliver ...and thus ...become ordained.

You gave sufficient importance to your sight when it grasped the encounter with the golden gate. You had developed your sight too. You had sufficiently worked on your instruments of acquiring knowledge. You had painstakingly deciphered the process of working of your sense organs. You knew how your eyes wandered ...what your ears devoured ...what your nose longed and haunted for ...what your tongue longed for ...and with what your skin wished to contact. You went behind their individual wishes and studied their post-process results. You enjoyed this play of senses. These games were your own. You knew that these defined you. You respected the presence of your senses ...their means and allowed them to play their roles.And thus, you developed your insight. ...And this insight blessed you to grasp the oncoming aspects. Your thus developed insight blessed you with tremendous acumen to foresee. Your thus evolved insight became your obedient servant to serve you with special ordainment to foretell. You had sufficiently trained yourself to give importance to your this sight. The ordainments came to you through effort, through labour ...through your Purushaarth ...through the blessings that you developed intent in that direction - Your right direction ...your right sight.

You gave sufficient importance to your sight when it grasped the encounter with the golden gate. You were a strong believer of encounters.You were told that ordainments were blessings of God - that these come without effort - that these come, if and when, He willed. ...You just get them. ...No amount of prayer can get these to you. ...Nobody knows the ways of the God.No path is laid for the Pathik. ...These rulings are heavenly dictates that formulate the universal religion. ...But you were also told silently ...rather in hued words and in subtle manner that there was something like Purushaarth. Somehow these silent words registered in your psyche deeper than all other dictates ...these hued words made indelible impression on your being ...their subtleness had some kind of subtle attraction which pulled you into your Purushaarth.... The attraction was subtle but continuous ...always pulling you ...always in process of making your intent. You registered that this was your sole recluse ...recluse from understanding of unearned blessings. You acknowledged within your being that it was your sole refuge ...refuge from civilisation's cultured conditioning of nobody knows the ways of the God. ...And you knew that it was better to encounter than wait.Your sight knew how to grasp and your psyche learnt encountering ...the game of encountering. You trained yourself to jump off into the dark abysses. ...You practiced to plunge into the unknown tracks. ...Your adventurousness was miraculous ...magical. Encountering was the chief caring for you for it kept you childlike. ...You were always curious ...every phenomenon struck you with awe ...all was wondrous for you ...your innocence was ever marvellous ...and your ignorance was always divine. Encountering was the game ...encountering was the play ...encountering was the challenge ...encountering was the ordainment. Encountering was the ordainment for this great moment of your life. ...You were to encounter the golden gate today. All your experience was on the anvil today. ...And practiced ...and learned ...and experienced that you were ...You were victorious.

The passage through the golden gate, like all other milestones till date, was also momentary ...but it was momentous. ...It was one great culmination. ...It was a gate pass to enter into the world of festivity ...world of celebrations ...world of piety. It was one moment that condensed all essences and flavours of your all moments ...till-date. The condensation of everything till-date was absolute. It produced candescence in your being. It executed the crystallization of your being till-date. The very passing across your Golden Gate, transformed you into an ordained being. You turned into a 'Should be'. Now surety is ordained. ...Now it has to happen. ...Now nothing can be done about it. ...Now much is not in your hands. ...Now all Purushaarth to set you in that orientation has fruited. ...Now you have designed yourself not to fail. ...Now your destiny is taken care-off. ...Now it is all self-propelled.

Passing through this golden gate, you enter into a great revolutionary arena ...called 'The Universe'. Up to this time it was always your world ...your own big world ...it was the world of you pure form, your soft form, your supreme form, your energy levels, your relations with all these - Now it is your universe. Now, you have been launched into the great ...vast ...infinite open sky. You know that you came from your known door. You know that till now you saw the sky from frames of your self-made doors. You know now that it is the same sky that is being seen by each one and every one. You know that now even when you will witness the sky from your frame you will know the frame separate from the sky. You know that each one who has crossed the golden gate will acknowledge this fact and will witness the frame and the sky separately. The Sky is universal ...the world of gross is engrossed in the Sky. For all such ordained ones, the frames will be different - made in the world of gross and the sky will appear to be different ...however ...same ...the same ...and Universal.

You were a rebel then - you were a real gem of a rebellion ...and you are a rebel now - a real gem of the rebellions. Earlier, your rebelliousness was singular - Now it is wholesome. That time your rebellion was personal wish - Now it is your internal dictate. Now you are effective. Now it is not a frustrating outcry, not a helpless blabbering. Now it is an action ...a kind of proactive action ...an action, which as per you, is a mere reaction - but to the world outside it is proactive ...ethical ...magical ...and righteous. Neither you are unaware - nor you are silent; neither you are ignorant - nor you are boisterous; neither you are out of understanding - nor you are without it. Now you are a silent tool; silent not in the sense of being hidden, backward, unspeaking or avoiding kind - but silent in the sense of being quiet, being continual, being effective; not demanding but silent in the sense of being triumphant. This great revolutionary arena is the Sansaar and you with your principled principle ...His messenger ...His doer ...His communicator. The revolution is now with smiles ...with happiness ...with joy ...and with compassion. Your rebellion has come of age and bestowed on you your real purpose of life ...as per your Dharma.

Other beatitudes that you get blessed with are that now you need not encounter - It is one sublime benediction. Now you will not need to encounter. Now you will not encounter but will sail smooth ...flowing ...like breeze ...soothing and refreshing. Also, now you will not grasp the sight, you do not need to ...no grasping - now you will have the insight ...and your insight will be brilliant ...brilliant but suffused ...as a subtle undercurrent ...soft ...and flowering ...and velvety ...and humane ...and godly. Now you meet the conscious ...and you know the subconscious. Now the game is in waiting - waiting in your sincere search. Now the game is in silence ...in silent contemplation of your sincere research. Now the continuity is in peeping into your unconscious. Now the play is in meeting your unconscious. Your unconscious was always wanting to be with you. Earlier you were busy - earlier the conscious was corrupted and thus opposed any further manifestation. Your unconscious was suppressed through ages ...and it was the carrier of billion intents of your past and their essence principles. Now, with your experienced state and with benedictions formatting your forte, you receive your unconscious with open heart. You adopt all greatness that should have been dominant in you as per all your lives. Your 'Should be' fruition is yours ...in silence ...in utmost positivity ...for your ordained purpose.

Having travelled across the golden gate and being in the open sky, your practices of the ethical restraints and observances (Yama and Niyam) graduate. Now you experience the purity as a special ordainment. Now your purity is in looking through and through. It is your utmost transparency in the aspects of your universe. Now the light passes through and through just as it is ...without wavering or diffracting. There is nothing to hamper your light's flow now ...nothing absorbs it any more ...nothing obstructs it anymore ...your vision is complete. Now your vision travels across just as it is without refracting or reflecting ...there is nothing to refract into or to reflect from; the travel of your light is unhindered ...unobstructed ...un-tempered. That is your purity now.

When you see through then what is there to cause any delay in the end-result? There is none. You have learnt to oversee the delaying causes. They are of no worth to you ...they do not disturb you ...nor they add any value to your purpose. They exist just naturally as they must exist. It is their journey. You enjoy it. In fact their normal presence gives you on-line understanding of the present trends of those worlds. Now these are simply ever enlarging avenues that need not be encountered ...though these keep confronting wholesomely with your entire solidarity. Now these avenues need not be grasped ...though these keep acquiring all aspects of your newly ordained universe. Now these avenues are mere causes of enormous victories ...of unfathomable happiness ...of constant smile ...of tremendous positivity and of playing the game of silence ...of waiting ...of contemplating ...of knowing ...and of enjoying. These avenues simply reverberate in you constantly. Day in and day out you are in action - and your principled principle is always with you consciously in each moment - and His vicinity is of immense pleasure for you. This newly found company gives you unimagined happiness. You only wish to become more pure by your each endeavor ...by your each maneuver ...in order to get closer to Him.

Your prayer is not a ritual now ...it is a conversation with your newly found friend. It is a conversation par words - because words are confusing. It is a conversation par language - because language is inadequate. Now the conversation is between you and Him ...and you want to turn purer to be able to have clearer look into Him ...to know Him in a clearer manner. Now, His representative, your Chidiya is with you ...always ...consciously. She is your beloved. Your Chidiya is with you in all aspects that you are ordained-with. She is your child ...your version ...your fulfillment ...your continuation ...your next. She is your-everything ...your friend ...your partner ...your completion. She is your guide ...your guru ...your purifying agent. She is your worship ...your goddess ...and even your god. The love affair is eternally divine and godly. Day in and day out ...you remember Him ...she is by the side. Your all actions are unto Him ...she is your guide. When you are with your love ...your Chidiya ...He is there as media.....as ether....as...Sky.

You are revealed to the power of Mantra now. Mantra is the means to control your ever-wavering Mind. Mantra is even escape if need be. Mantra is conditioning for further pilgrimage. Mantra is preparation to meet. Mantra is filling your gaps. Mantra fills every part of your existence, which is out of your action and love. Action is surrendered to Him ...love is adorned with her ...and whatever is left is filled with Mantra. It is for your further purification. And so is Japa - He is sung. You are nothing but your words alone. You are your sound alone. You came out of your sound and need to merge in your sound alone. Sound was your first manifestation in the great Sky. And so is Tapah ...action ...sacrifice ...Agnihotra.

Your purity becomes cleaner and cleaner ...out of the worldly kind... Your physical body is nothing but the five physical principle elements... 'Panch Bhootas'. The meaninglessness of physiology of your body is revealed to you... The eternal story of the earthen pot placed in the sky and filled with sky becomes evident to you. When the pot breaks, the sky merges with the sky... The same sky was in the pot ...and the pot was nothing but earth element in shape of the pot. The tenet is understood by you - You cognize it not only for the earth element but also for all the Bhootas. The significance of the body is thus understood... The nonsense of the sense organs and the disorganization of the sense organs is thus known. Each one of us is 'One Principled Principle'...and that principle has embodied itself with the Panch Bhootas. This in turn, is nothing but His creation alone adorned by His Shakti alone - This body of Panch Bhootas must be respected and loved and cared-for, for it is His home. As far as 'You' are concerned ...this body must be intensely loved and kept devoted to you as a faithful servant.

You are in this exhilarating journey of the beyond ...beyond the love ...always enjoying ...improving ...enriching ...furthering ...gaining ...and continuing in understanding ...experiencing ...in becoming more and more aware ...becoming cleaner ...turning purer.

You are in action...in love...and in your Mantra. Your continuity is unbroken. Your Aasan is your adornmentand your Praana is in your domain now. And when in the journey of the beyond, in that one split moment your eyes open and you see an object ...may be a chair, a TV, a tree ...or anything ...immediately ...just in that moment, the perception of that object obliterates the knowledge chain. It comes to you in such obvious manner now ...Knowledge of obliteration becomes clearer to you now. And you play the regal game - You make your sense organs make your chain of continual revelation ...break ...by letting them do it again and again ...and again till they lose ...till the chronology of your action is no more dependent on your sense organs. Now your journey is independent of the actuators of the 'World of Gross. And with such ordainments, you enter into Dhyaan ...the world concentration ...and you propel out of your Mann. Your mind does not play with you anymore. You play with it. Your mind does not tend to put you in automation now. Rather having understood your traversed position, it becomes your most ordained servant. Your Mind is your servant now.... This is the transcendence to Samaadhi...

You areInstated now.....

You traverse into the 'Would Be'. Transcending from the 'Should Be' is sudden... You have won the ultimate. Your victory drive has fruited. You could not have settled for the less. Now the journey is ...'IS'. Now is the game of real silence. There is no clatter...there cannot be. There is no chatter...there cannot be. Now you are in the game of real waiting - there is no dogma ...there cannot be. There is no principle ...there cannot be. You are in the play of doing nothing ...just doing nothing ...just sitting - There is no intent ...there cannot be. There is no dictate ...there cannot be. There is no tenet ...no principle ...no irony ...no flow - Just idling ...just continuity ...par conscious. The journey of 'IS' is just the state of super-consciousness ...and of no-mind. You are totally aware ...so thoroughly aware ...nothing misses you ...and mind does not play the tricks on you any more ...mind is absent. The truth is known in your mind ...as it is.

.....This is the status Hindu Ad'dhyaatm places its sincere students into..... Silence ...complete infinite silence ...and waiting ...just waiting ...sitting ...doing nothing. Just waiting ...is the last leg.Masters all over the world are in it. Ad'dhyaatm all over the world proclaims it....

.....It is the final leg ...not the first step... It is the complete cycle travelled ...not the beginning... It is the pinnacle ...not the initiation. You cannot know about it - if you miss the links. ...Unfortunately, some modern gurus start their teachings with this stage - that is not the way. That cannot be. ...It is only defaming a study... It is only playing mischief. In such cases, neither the teacher is educated nor the student can ever grow. It results in gross wastage of a young budthe bud that could have flowered.

Everything is achieved instantaneously for the instated one ...and nothing is achieved instantaneously for others. Spontaneity is not the basic trait of the Objective World - Everything takes time. The process time is the root phenomenon. You must understand it. There is no point in hurrying-up. It is utmost foolish to expect the results then-and-there. There is something like 'Gestation Period', which ought to be there. It takes time to build up. There is involvement of a whole lot-of-process and a whole exactness of quality of the involved objects. The end-result is dependant not only on the gestation period but also on the variability in the process and truthfulness - that is to be worked out exponentially. Of course, there is no doubt in certainty of one kind of end-result provided the variability during the process is controlled and the appropriate gestation period is passed.

The term 'Gestation Period' is not applicable in the 'World of Across'. Herein the results are achieved instantaneously - Just then-and-there. Subjective World is not familiar with anything like gestation period. Why must the result take time? Everything happens with the speed of light ...even faster ...instantaneously. When the purity is of supreme order, everything happens just then-and-there. The play of instated ones is of instantaneous instances ...of utter silence ...of no visible movements. The instated one knows the process... He is aware of each infinitesimal movement... He understands each micro movement of its developmental cycle... He controls the process by micro-adjustment ...each developmental element is taken care-off ...each ingredient is healthy ...each element is appropriate in structure and quality ...and so is the end-result.

You love somebody... Love happens to you. How much time lapses before you become happy about your this ordainment? You give away a gift of smile to somebody. How much time passes before your feeling great about it? Your rewards of all such actions are instantaneous ...just then-and-there. You love somebody and you are rewarded just then only... There is no waiting ...happiness does not have to await gestation ...the fruition is instant.

Mostly the rewards are many times your input ...and then your whole of remaining life you get the bonus. Its reward is also carried forward to your future lives.

If you were to be a mere expert, the importance of having crossed the golden gate could be undermined. The expert only needs to perform; his focus is only on achieving; his intent knows no other avenue, but achieving the perfect result. As an expert, his vision is limited to results of his endeavour; his horizon is constrained. Hindu Ad'dhyaatm cannot stop here - you are not to be a mere expert in the field of your expertise you cannot undermine the importance of the great moment; for you the quality of that moment is very important. Expertise in the field of your endeavour is only a mean to achieve the Sky; it is only a way. You treaded this way, not to grow in expertise therein but only to be able to come in the open sky.

For you, every step forward and every little advancement was of importance. You cared for all that happened around all the time. You developed into an expert not of your field of work, but of recognizing the importance of each manoeuvre around you. You could see the moments arriving onto you and moments going away from you. Each moment took you a step forward towards the open sky and you enjoyed each of those moments. And you respected each moment; that moment contained the entire flavour, the entire essence of that milestone. The milestone was crossed but the moment lived with all its qualitative fragrances; these fragrances were to make your being of future. These moments were always important to you and when your sight encountered the golden gate you simply grasped the moment.... You could not do otherwise ...you had practiced all your life ...you were experienced ...and having kept the close acquaintance with each passing moment of life you, you were meant to become the master.

An expert knows the subject but he cannot tell the way. A master knows the way and can lead too. It is a different thing to be an expert and it is altogether a different thing to be a master. An expert is a mere dry element ...reached ...only a can-do ...who has crossed. A master is furnished to know the answers ...a master is a player of humanity ...all his life he invests in humanity.The master is His messenger ...His prophet. ...The master is His mystic. The master knows God. The God principle is revealed to him. ...He visits Him at will. ...He comes back to the world because of His infinite compassion...

One absolute truth that the instated one is always aware of is regarding the constancy of Motion. Everything every aspect is in the ever-movement ...Is in Gati... He knows the movement. ...He is experienced in it. ...To him, it is an existential Truth. ...This is not merely a movement - This is a drive. For any movement to continue - idling energy is to be injected. This ever-drive is so existential ...that the existence itself depends on it. If it were not to be there even for a split second, the existence would cease.

The instated one understands the compulsive necessity of it. He knows that this absolute necessary requisite is a blessing from the Supreme Power. In case of movement the energy is intrinsic ...hidden ...of no prime importance... The instated one knows that it is not merely a movement, it is a drive ...an ever-drive ...and in drive - motion is intrinsic. No work is said to be done, if there is no motion ...and, when the motion is evident ...the work is being done ...the existence of energy is also evident. There is the existence of energy. ...So is existence of The Supreme. In case of drive, motion is intrinsic ...hidden ...so it is not the real thing to be observed - Energy becomes the subject of intent. If you are awed by motion alone ...for you, energy will not be of real importance. If you will be surprised by presence of drive, you will be interested in energy. This energy is omnipresent.

The entirety is on the move...

You cannot do anything about it. You cannot contribute to its starting - it is already on. You have not cranked it - it is self-propelled. Nothing is on the stopping ...the movement is on. The energy keeps on finding different gates ...it is the same energy ...it is only one energy ...it is ever pure ...the consciousness. The instated one knows it... He respects it... He enjoys it.

The Journey is very individualistic ...very enjoyable ...very blissful. You reach into understanding is very multidimensional now. You know various understandings emerging from various dimensions now. It is neither a beginning, nor finality now. It is always the existential truth, which you have perceived ...to which you contribute ...which is another next in the world of continuity. You cannot leave any footmarks ...it is not required ...it is so unnecessary ...it is such erasable phenomenon. Footmarks are so short lived. You have found your way ...the way came to you all by itself ...you only placed yourself inline. Others have to find theirs ...others will find their way ...they will place themselves inline...
